Now Hiring: Teaching Artists for all Programs

Do you love to engage people in celebrating their strengths, learning skills and finding joy through creativity? Are you a teacher and an artist? Inclusive Arts Vermont is looking to add part-time contracted teaching artists to its team. Teaching artists are responsible for the development, delivery, and documentation of Inclusive Arts Vermont's range of visual and performing arts classes to participants of all ages. Teaching artists work in all regions of the state, and we have a particular need for those located in the Washington, Addison, Chittenden, Franklin, Grand Isle, and Rutland County areas at this time.

Start With The Arts

Start With The Arts (SWTA) focuses on instilling a lifelong love of reading and strengthening the quality of early childhood education across Vermont. It is an award-winning arts-based literacy program for childcare providers and the children in their care. The program couples direct service to children with professional development for providers in both home-based and small center childcare sites. Since 2006, SWTA has engaged more than 3,000 children and 500 childcare providers in every county of Vermont.

Home-based childcare providers are invited to apply to this free professional development program by downloading an application from our website. Hours in the program are applicable towards STARS and Advanced Specialized Care.

Call to Artists: Show your work statewide in 2020!

Inclusive Arts Vermont invites established and emerging Vermont artists to participate in ANEW, an exhibition showcasing works of art by Vermont artists with disabilities to travel statewide through the 2020 calendar year. The exhibition will begin its statewide tour at the Amy E. Tarrant Gallery in Burlington on February 15, 2020. Artists are asked to submit works that represent their interpretation of the theme of ANEW, highlighting beginnings, openings, doorways, and new starts.

ANEW will offer participating artists opportunities to be featured in statewide publicity, build larger audiences for their work, and receive technical assistance in the professional documentation and presentation of their work. All exhibition host galleries are physically accessible and the exhibition will provide accessible program and communication features coordinated by Inclusive Arts Vermont. This includes, but is not limited to: verbal descriptions, audio tours, large print, braille, and gallery tours.
