

We're hiring teaching artists - apply today!

Do you love to engage people in celebrating their strengths, learning skills, and finding joy through the arts and creativity? Are you an artist and an educator? Inclusive Arts Vermont is looking to add part-time contracted Teaching Artists to our team.

Teaching Artists are responsible for the development, delivery, and documentation of Inclusive Arts Vermont's range of visual and performing arts classes to participants of all ages. Teaching artists work in all regions of the state, and we have a current need for those located in Chittenden County, though folks outside this range are invited to apply as well. We have both in-person and remote teaching opportunities available. We are interested in hearing from teaching artists in a wide variety of mediums and genres.

We are seeking to fill positions for classes/residencies with children as well as adults. More about who we need:

- patience, diligence, creativity, skill in at least one art form, desire to connect with students and share the joys of the creative process
- comfort leading process-focused, open-ended arts experiences

Teaching Artists may work in a variety of Inclusive Arts Vermont programs, including Adult Arts Education, K-12 Integrated Arts Residences, Start With The Arts, and professional development workshops. Hired persons may train to teach in all or selected programs, depending on their experience and interest. Candidates should have experience working as a teaching artist or equivalent.

We have special interest in candidates with a background in engaging people with disabilities, and we always offer support and further training to our team. We have a specific need for K-12 teaching artists, as well as visual and performing arts teaching artists for adults with disabilities. We offer paid planning time and mileage compensation. We also have lots of fun.
