Call to artists: Applications for CYCLES, our 5th exhibition for Vermont artists with disabilities, are now open!

CYCLES

We're thrilled to announce our 5th exhibition: CYCLES! We invite Vermont disabled artists to submit their work to our art exhibition.

Apply today through September 22nd:

- Use this form.
- Use the Word version or PDF version and email us at exhibitions@inclusiveartsvermont.org.
- Learn more at www.inclusiveartsvermont.org/cycles.

The theme CYCLES came from ideas shared by our community. We encourage artists to interpret the theme in any way that inspires them. Artwork could include cycles of nature. Cycles of the body. Experiences of repetition, circular shapes, and more. Artists can explore the theme broadly and creatively.

Disability exists in all communities and across all identities. We encourage artists at any stage in their artistic career, emerging or experienced, to apply. We also encourage applications from diverse communities and cultural backgrounds including BIPOC and 2SLGBTQIA+ disabled artists.

The exhibition will travel the state, opening at the Davis Center at UVM in February 2024. Tour sites are still in process. If you are a venue interested in sharing the exhibition, please email exhibitions@inclusiveartsvermont.org.

Accessibility: All tour venues will be physically accessible. As part of these exhibitions, we offer a full range of accessibility services including print materials in braille and large print, an audio tour, verbal descriptions of every work in the show, tactile elements, sensory kits, and ASL and captioning at events upon request.

Applications open on August 15 and close on September 22, 2023. For the most current information including the full Call to Artists, visit:
